› Tamil Studies With Early Education
You have a sense of empathy and a deep desire to build a better community through advocacy, education, media, language and culture. You’re interested in what makes people tick, and fascinated by human behaviour and psychology.

Here at the School of Humanities & Social Sciences (HMS), you will learn to reach out to others, inspire them, and enrich their lives.
6 DIPLOMAS
THAT MAKE A DIFFERENCE

Not all heroes wear capes — the six diplomas by HMS aim to develop the young changemaker in you by opening doors to diverse disciplines in humanities and social sciences. What’s also unique at NP is that there’s also a Service-Learning component in every diploma to make learning more engaging and purposeful. You’ll discover that what you’ve learnt can make an impact on society!

INSPIRING A RICH HERITAGE
Arts Business Management (ABM)
An innovative diploma that is anchored in the creative arts and heritage while also exposing you to the business management aspect of the industry. You’ll also gain real-world experience at notable galleries, museums, performing arts or heritage organisations. Plus, come and be part of the team that curates Verve, a community arts festival that has moved online to meet the demands of the digitalisation of the arts and heritage sector.

NURTURING YOUNG MINDS
Early Childhood Development & Education (ECDE)
Got a big heart to shape little minds? This diploma helps you build a strong foundation in understanding child development, early childhood care and education for infants and young children. It is conducted by the National Institute of Early Childhood Development (NIEC) in collaboration with NP at the NIEC (NP) campus, and is recognised by the Early Childhood Development Agency (ECDA).

Tamil Studies with Early Education (TSE)
A unique diploma centred around the rich Tamil language and culture that prepares you to be a qualified Tamil Mather Tongue Language preschool educator. The diploma is conducted by the National Institute of Early Childhood Development (NIEC) in collaboration with NP at the NIEC (NP) campus, and is recognised by the Early Childhood Development Agency (ECDA).

SOCIAL INNOVATION IN ACTION
Community Development (CDT)
Learn about human behaviour and how to identify needs and create innovative solutions to help, serve and empower communities. The course will expose you to various aspects of psychology, social work, management and social innovation to prepare you for meaningful careers in public and non-profit sectors.

EXPERTISE IN CHINESE
Chinese Media & Communication (CMC)
A bilingual media course that aims to nurture creative professionals capable of producing content for both new and traditional media platforms such as podcasts, short-form videos, radio and TV. You will also be trained to write for publications and design user interfaces.

Chinese Studies (CHS)
The only polytechnic diploma of its kind with three specialisations:
- Education:
  - Trains you to become a Chinese Language primary school teacher.
- Business:
  - Prepares you for careers in Chinese business communication and practice, professional translation, as well as the heritage and tourism industries.
- Early Childhood Teaching:
  - Preps you to become a Chinese Language preschool teacher. This specialisation is conducted by the National Institute of Early Childhood Development (NIEC) in collaboration with NP at the NIEC (NP) campus, and is recognised by the Early Childhood Development Agency (ECDA).

A broad-based diploma anchored in the principles of creative arts, heritage and management
Arts Volunteer Scheme provides experiential training with local arts and heritage organisations
Industry-based assessments that prepare graduates for the workplace
WHAT THE COURSE IS ABOUT
If you love the idea of planning arts events, or working in galleries, museums, performing arts, or heritage organisations, then the Diploma in Arts Business Management (ABM) could be what you are looking for!

Throughout the three years, you will cultivate an appreciation for various creative art forms, ranging from theatre and music, to dance and visual arts through lectures, workshops and industry visits. You will also be introduced to business and management skills that will teach you how to manage, market and finance arts and heritage organisations.

Right from the first year of study, you will gain a basic understanding of the arts and heritage sectors, and grow an appreciation for different art forms. You will also have the opportunity to learn from arts and cultural practitioners, workers, managers and administrators, and eventually gain industry exposure to the arts and cultural scene.

In the second year, you will learn how to conduct research on cultural audiences, use digital media to market your event to specific audience segments, develop sponsorship strategies, and organise physical and digital festivals and events. To apply these skills, you will also get an opportunity to plan and organise Verve, an annual online community arts festival. You will apply the skills and knowledge that you learn to plan and implement programmes, present arts and cultural performances, work with artists and volunteers, and ensure financial sustainability for the event.

In the final year, you will work on a project or embark on an internship, either locally or abroad. That’s not all – you will also integrate your entrepreneurial and creative ideas through a digital exhibition that you will curate, as well as develop products, programmes and merchandise.

THE MONTHLY AFFAIR
Some people might feel shy or even uncomfortable talking about menstruation, but not this group of final-year CMC students! Through Instagram (@themonthlyaffair), TikTok and RED, they talked about the importance of menstrual hygiene and destigmatised the topic using memes, short videos and more. The group was featured in zbCOMMA, and they also partnered with the Chinese Development Assistance Council to conduct a sharing session with upper primary school students.

WHAT THE COURSE IS ABOUT

Have a love for the Chinese language and culture, a passion for educating young minds or a flair for business? Here’s a course that marries all three. Armed with a Diploma in Chinese Studies (CHS), you will be a cut above the rest in meeting the rising demand for specialists in Chinese culture and language.

As the first and only course of its kind offered at the polytechnic level, and with at least half of the course conducted in Chinese, CHS sharpens your language skills while preparing you for careers in the education, media, tourism and business sectors. As part of the programme, you will go on field trips to broaden your perspective of Chinese culture and society.

In the first year of study, you will go on a discovery journey to uncover aspects of Chinese history, culture, literature, drama and theatre. You will also be exposed to the fundamentals of translation and how to write effectively in Chinese.

In the second year, you can choose to embark on one of the three specialisations: Education, Business or Early Childhood Teaching.

In the final year, you will spend a semester working on an industry project or undergoing an internship. Through industry exposure, you will gain valuable insights into sectors such as education, early childhood, as well as translation, project and events management.

3 SPECIALISATIONS* TO CHOOSE FROM

Education

Want to be a Chinese Language primary school teacher? This specialisation will cover topics on teaching, curriculum planning, and child development. Furthermore, you will receive training opportunities at the National Institute of Education (NIE) in your final semester. Upon graduation, you will spend another year at NIE to complete a Diploma in Education (Chinese Specialisation). Students on this track may apply directly for the MOE Teacher Training Scheme that covers tuition fees and offers a monthly allowance.

Business

Students who choose the Business specialisation will hone their skills in technology in business, Chinese business practice, marketing as well as Chinese business communication and translation. You will also gain an in-depth understanding of heritage tourism.

Early Childhood Teaching

If you are interested in becoming a Chinese Language preschool teacher this specialisation will help you learn about the holistic development of a child, and curriculum planning and design for preschool education. Apply theory to practice through practicums and internships at early childhood centres.

*All specialisation options are subject to availability

WHAT THE COURSE IS ABOUT

If you love interacting with children and want to play a part in shaping their growth, then our Diploma in Early Childhood Development & Education (ECDE) may be for you.

This course is conducted by the National Institute of Early Childhood Development (NIEC) in collaboration with NP at the NIEC (NP) campus. The qualification is recognised by the Early Childhood Development Agency (ECDA) for graduates to register and practise as a preschool teacher in Singapore.

From the first year of study, you will go on weekly attachments at childcare centres, and get an opportunity to apply and hone your skills alongside experienced teachers. You will build a strong foundation in understanding child development, early childhood care and education for young children between the ages of 18 months and 6 years.

In the second year, you will continue your field practicum while learning about the holistic development of a child, as well as curriculum planning and design. You will also learn how to encourage children to be curious learners and problem solvers.

In the final year, you will deepen your knowledge in your area of interest with electives such as Music & Dance for Young Children and Drama for Preschool Education, or take up modules in the Early Intervention track. You may even choose to take up the 2D & 3D Art modules conducted at the NIEC (Temasek Polytechnic) campus (subject to terms and conditions). You will also put your skills and knowledge into practice when you go on a six-month internship at an early childhood centre.

Upon graduation, you will become a certified preschool teacher. You can go on to upgrade your career through post-diploma programmes at the NIEC or embark on a local degree programme with exemption of up to one semester.

WHAT THE COURSE IS ABOUT

If you love interacting with children and want to play a part in shaping their growth, then our Diploma in Early Childhood Development & Education (ECDE) may be for you.

This course is conducted by the National Institute of Early Childhood Development (NIEC) in collaboration with NP at the NIEC (NP) campus. The qualification is recognised by the Early Childhood Development Agency (ECDA) for graduates to register and practise as a preschool teacher in Singapore.

From the first year of study, you will go on weekly attachments at childcare centres, and get an opportunity to apply and hone your skills alongside experienced teachers. You will build a strong foundation in understanding child development, early childhood care and education for young children between the ages of 18 months and 6 years.

In the second year, you will continue your field practicum while learning about the holistic development of a child, as well as curriculum planning and design. You will also learn how to encourage children to be curious learners and problem solvers.

In the final year, you will deepen your knowledge in your area of interest with electives such as Music & Dance for Young Children and Drama for Preschool Education, or take up modules in the Early Intervention track. You may even choose to take up the 2D & 3D Art modules conducted at the NIEC (Temasek Polytechnic) campus (subject to terms and conditions). You will also put your skills and knowledge into practice when you go on a six-month internship at an early childhood centre.

Upon graduation, you will become a certified preschool teacher. You can go on to upgrade your career through post-diploma programmes at the NIEC or embark on a local degree programme with exemption of up to one semester.

CAREER

With an increasing emphasis on raising the quality of early childhood education in Singapore, there are good career prospects and an abundance of training opportunities.

The Diploma in Early Childhood Development and Education is awarded by the National Institute of Early Childhood Development (NIEC) in collaboration with Ngee Ann Polytechnic/Temasek Polytechnic. The diploma fulfills the professional qualifications of a Level 2 category of an early childhood educator. You may teach any level from Pre-Nursery, Nursery to K1 and K2. You may also work in other children-related fields.

With further studies and training, you may find employment in the following areas:
– Child Support and Family Services
– Early Intervention, Special Needs Education
– Curriculum Development
– Play Therapy
– Teacher Education

FURTHER STUDIES

For ECDE graduates with work experience, you can undertake NIEC’s Post-Diploma Certificate, Specialist Diploma or Advanced Diploma training in early childhood related areas. These courses will better equip you to take on roles as a Lead Teacher and Centre Leader. As an ECDE graduate, you may enjoy up to one year’s worth of credit exemption for the full-time Bachelor of Early Childhood Education with a Minor at the Singapore University of Social Sciences.

You may also gain direct entry into the Bachelor of Education (Special Education) programme at Flinders University, Australia. This programme is offered in partnership with the Social Service Institute, Singapore.

CHILDREN. COMMUNICATION. CULTURE.
These 3Cs embody the TSE experience where aspiring Tamil preschool teachers are given rich and hands-on learning experiences. Programmes like Camp Inspire and Project Involve, and collaborations with preschools and community organisations like the National Library Board (NLIB) and the Tamil Council create opportunities for students to find out more about Tamil culture and the local Indian community. Students also participate in national events such as Sorsilamabam, a Tamil debate competition in which the TSE team won the top three prizes in 2019!

OUR GRADUATES WITH THAT SOMETHING
